Re: Magten et al. v. NorthWestern Corp.

Dear Counsel:

I am writing with respect to various issues raised by NorthWestern's intention to call Charles A. Patrizia of Paul Hastings as a witness at trial, as set forth in the initial witness list that we received at approximately 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, January 22. I am copying counsel from Davis Polk on this letter because that firm has previously represented Paul Hastings in its capacity as a potential third-party witness in this litigation (as well as in the separate litigation now on appeal in the Third Circuit) and we do not know whether or not they represent Mr. Patrizia in his individual capacity as a designated trial witness. If there are other counsel for Mr. Patrizia or Paul Hastings with whom we should communicate on these issues, please let us know.

Joe Pizzurro and Bonnie Steingart agreed last spring that to the extent NorthWestern designated any trial witnesses who had not been deposed during fact discovery, they would be made available for deposition. It is therefore now necessary to schedule Mr. Patrizia's deposition. In order to move things forward, we are today serving a Rule 45 subpoena (a courtesy copy of which is attached) setting that deposition for Friday, February 15, 2008 at Fried Frank's Washington, D.C. offices. We are willing to hold the deposition in New York or another mutually convenient location, and are also willing to be flexible with respect to the date, within the fairly narrow confines of what is practical given the trial date.

However, it is clear both from Mr. Patrizia's declaration dated November 27, 2007 submitted with NorthWestern's summary judgment motion (the "Patrizia Declaration") as well as the nature of his role with respect to the transactions at issue that Mr. Patrizia's testimony will necessarily waive attorney-client privilege. Indeed, privilege has already been waived by the proffering of the Patrizia Declaration to the Court. Mr. Patrizia is apparently not being offered as an expert witness (and could not be, given that the various deadlines for the designation of experts and disclosure of expert reports have long since passed) but as a fact witness, apparently to testify as to NorthWestern's subjective purpose, intent, and state of mind in structuring the various transactions as it did and carrying them out when it did. The only possible basis on which he could have admissible personal knowledge of NorthWestern's state of mind is as a result of communications he had with NorthWestern's employees in his capacity as a lawyer. (Paragraph 2 of the Patrizia Declaration confirms that the basis for his knowledge is information he learned in his capacity as a lawyer representing NorthWestern.) Moreover, it appears from the declaration that Mr. Patrizia may testify that NorthWestern structured the transactions and their timing in the fashion that it did as a result of legal advice it received from Mr. Patrizia or other Paul Hastings lawyers, thus putting that advice in issue. Indeed, the entire claim that NorthWestern should be presumed to have lacked fraudulent intent because it was motivated by a supposed desire to evade the regulatory requirements of PUHCA is a classic advice-of-counsel defense, which necessarily comes at the price of a waiver of privilege as to the entire relevant subject matter.

Under these circumstances, plaintiffs cannot adequately prepare for trial, and cannot prepare for the deposition of Mr. Patrizia, without timely access to all documents evidencing communications between NorthWestern and Mr. Patrizia and his colleagues and all documents evidencing the advice Mr. Patrizia and his colleagues gave NorthWestern with respect to the structuring and timing of the transactions at issue. The names of Mr. Patrizia and his colleagues are ubiquitous on NorthWestern's privilege log. We hereby request that all such documents on the privilege log not previously produced in connection with the Special Master's various rulings of last spring be produced to us forthwith, but in no event later than 5:00 p.m. on Friday, February 1, 2008.

Additionally, we are serving today narrowly-focused document subpoenas on Mr. Patrizia and Paul Hastings seeking documents relating to the apparent subject matter of his testimony (copies attached) and will also be serving a follow-up document request on NorthWestern covering the same ground. With respect to the latter, this is a belt-and-suspenders precaution on our part, as we presume that most, if not all, relevant documents would be responsive to our earlier document requests and accordingly have either already been produced or will be produced pursuant to the request made in the preceding paragraph for documents listed on the privilege log. Given the timing of trial, the default 30-day response period of Fed. R. Civ. P. 34(b) is obviously impractical and we request that NorthWestern agree to a shortened schedule that would make its response due on Tuesday, February 5, 2008.

Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson LLP

Finally, we note that all of the foregoing is without prejudice to our right to seek to exclude or limit Mr. Patrizia's testimony on any ground, including the ground that production now of relevant documents withheld on privilege grounds last spring is insufficient to cure the prejudice to plaintiffs of the unavailability of those documents when taking the depositions of the former NorthWestern officers (most or all of whom we understand to be outside the range of the trial court's subpoena power) with whom Mr. Patrizia and his colleagues had relevant conversations and to whom they gave relevant advice.

Sincerely,

Rule 45, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Subdivisions (c), (d), and (e), as amended on December 1, 2006:

(c) PROTECTION OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO SUBPOENAS

(1) A party or an attorney responsible for the issuance and service of a subpoena shall take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to that subpoena. The court on behalf of which the subpoena was issued shall enforce this duty and impose upon the party or attorney in breach of this duty an appropriate sanction, which may include, but is not limited to, lost earnings and a reasonable attorney's fee.

(2) (A) A person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of designated electronically stored information, books, papers, documents or tangible things, or inspection of premises need not appear in person at the place of production or inspection unless commanded to appear for deposition, hearing or trial.

(B) Subject to paragraph (d)(2) of this rule, a person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling may, within 14 days after service of the subpoena or before the time specified for compliance if such time is less than 14 days after service, serve upon the party or attorney designated in the subpoena written objection to producing any or all of the designated materials or inspection of the premises — or to producing electronically stored information in the form or forms requested. If objection is made, the party serving the subpoena shall not be entitled to inspect, copy, test, or sample the materials or inspect the premises except pursuant to an order of the court by which the subpoena was issued. If objection has been made, the party serving the subpoena may, upon notice to the person commanded to produce, move at any time for an order to compel the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling. Such an order to compel shall protect any person who is not a party or an officer of a party from significant expense resulting from the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling commanded.

(3) (A) On timely motion, the court by which a subpoena was issued shall quash or modify the subpoena if it

(i) fails to allow reasonable time for compliance;

(ii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to travel to a place more than 100 miles from the place where that person resides, is employed or regularly transacts business in person, except that, subject to the provisions of clause (c)(3)(B)(iii) of this rule, such a person may in order to attend trial be commanded to travel from any such place within the state in which the trial is held;

(iii) requires disclosure of privileged or other protected matter and no exception or waiver applies; or

(iv) subjects a person to undue burden.

(B) If a subpoena

(i) requires disclosure of a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information, or

(ii) requires disclosure of an unretained expert's opinion or information not describing specific events or occurrences in dispute and resulting from the expert's study made not at the request of any party, or

(iii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to incur substantial expense to travel more than 100 miles to attend trial, the court may, to protect a person subject to or affected by the subpoena, quash or modify the subpoena or, if the party in whose behalf the subpoena is issued shows a substantial need for the testimony or material that cannot be otherwise met without undue hardship and assures that the person to whom the subpoena is addressed will be reasonably compensated, the court may order appearance or production only upon specified conditions.

(d) DUTIES IN RESPONDING TO SUBPOENA.

(1) (A) A person responding to a subpoena to produce documents shall produce them as they are kept in the usual course of business or shall organize and label them to correspond with the categories in the demand.

(B) If a subpoena does not specify the form or forms for producing electronically stored information, a person responding to a subpoena must produce the information in a form or forms in which the person ordinarily maintains it or in a form or forms that are reasonably usable.

(C) A person responding to a subpoena need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form.

(D) A person responding to a subpoena need not provide discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or to quash, the person from whom discovery is sought must show that the information sought is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause, considering the limitations of Rule 26(b)(2)(C). The court may specify conditions for the discovery.

(2) (A) When information subject to a subpoena is withheld on a claim that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation materials, the claim shall be made expressly and shall be supported by a description of the nature of the documents, communications, or things not produced that is sufficient to enable the demanding party to contest the claim.

(B) If information is produced in response to a subpoena that is subject to a claim of privilege or of protection as trial-preparation material, the person making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has and may not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved. A receiving party may promptly present the information to the court under seal for a determination of the claim. If the receiving party disclosed the information before being notified, it must take reasonable steps to retrieve it. The person who produced the information must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(e) CONTEMPT. Failure of any person without adequate excuse to obey a subpoena served upon that person may be deemed a contempt of the court from which the subpoena issued. An adequate cause for failure to obey exists when a subpoena purports to require a nonparty to attend or produce at a place not within the limits provided by clause (ii) of subparagraph (c)(3)(A).

REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION

REQUEST NO. 1

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 2 of the Patrizia Declaration:

- (a) "I was personally involved in that representation"; and
- (b) "I advised NorthWestern on regulatory issues relating to the potential application of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("PUHCA") to the Transaction and to the corporate structures related to the Transaction."

REQUEST NO. 2

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 3 of the Patrizia Declaration:

- (a) “The second step, which was completed on November 15, 2002, involved the transfer of all MPLLC’s assets, except those specifically related to the Milltown Dam, to the parent company level at NorthWestern”;
- (b) “[T]he assumption by NorthWestern of MPLLC liabilities”;
- (c) “[T]he entry by NorthWestern into support agreements with MPLLC”;
- (d) “The Milltown Dam was associated with an active Superfund site, and NorthWestern sought to continue to segregate that potential liability from the remaining MPLLC operations”;
- (e) “NorthWestern did not want to move assets associated with Milltown Dam to the parent company level”; and
- (f) “This two-step process was contemplated from the very beginning of the Transaction.”

REQUEST NO. 3

With respect to ¶ 4 of the Patrizia Declaration, all documents relating to or concerning the “reasonable and legitimate business objectives of NorthWestern: (i) to avoid burdensome and duplicative regulation; and (ii) to address the interests of rating agencies and capital markets, which preferred that NorthWestern hold the MPLLC assets at the parent level.”

REQUEST NO. 4

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 6 of the Patrizia Declaration:

- (a) “NorthWestern preferred that the Transaction not result in its becoming a registered utility holding company, and therefore sought to structure the Transaction in a way that would avoid that possibility”; and

(b) “MPC preferred that the initial sale be in the form of a ‘stock’ rather than an ‘asset’ transaction, and the presence of certain assets in MPLLC would make MPLLC an ‘electric utility company’ for PUHCA purposes.”

REQUEST NO. 5

With respect to ¶ 8 of the Patrizia Declaration, all documents relating to or concerning the statement that: “Specifically, the transfer of the MPLLC assets to the parent level at NorthWestern provided greater transparency into NorthWestern’s utility operations and was viewed favorably by the rating agencies and the capital markets.”

REQUEST NO. 6

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 9 of the Patrizia Declaration:

- (a) “Because the transfer of assets could not be completed until NorthWestern had identified all of the MPLLC assets (including bills of sale and deeds, where applicable) and obtained various consents and regulatory approvals, there was inevitably some time between the initial acquisition of MPLLC (the first step in the Transaction), and the structural restoration of NorthWestern as a ‘flat’ utility company”; and
- (b) “In that circumstance, unless it otherwise qualified for an exemption from PUHCA, NorthWestern would have been subject to federal regulation and oversight under PUHCA.”

REQUEST NO. 7

All documents relating to or concerning NorthWestern’s exemption from PUHCA as referenced in ¶ 9 of the Patrizia Declaration, including all documents submitted by NorthWestern to any regulatory agency concerning NorthWestern’s exemption from PUHCA.

REQUEST NO. 8

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 10 of the Patrizia Declaration:

(a) “The regulatory implications of the two-step process had been identified at the very earliest stages of considering the Transaction, and NorthWestern explored throughout the Transaction period the possible bases on which it would qualify for exemption from PUHCA regulation”;

(b) “Ultimately, by the end of 2001, it became clear in discussions with the SEC staff that because of various factors, including the relative size of NorthWestern’s utility businesses in Montana, South Dakota, and Nebraska following the acquisition of MPLLC, NorthWestern would not meet the quantitative standards historically used by the SEC staff under sections 3(a)(1) and 3(a)(2) of PUHCA”;

(c) “After further discussion of the issues with the SEC staff, in February 2002 NorthWestern filed an application for an exemption under Section 3(a)(3) of PUHCA to address its status during the period necessary to complete the structural restoration”; and

(d) “In the application, NorthWestern showed that, given the lines of business it was then conducting and the historic gross revenues of those various businesses, NorthWestern was only ‘incidentally a holding company, being primarily engaged or interested in one or more businesses other than the business of public-utility company and ... not deriving, directly or indirectly, any material part of its income from any one or more subsidiary companies, the principal business of which is that of a public-utility company.’”

REQUEST NO. 9

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 11 of the Patrizia Declaration:

(a) “NorthWestern’s application for a 3(a)(3) exemption was effective upon its good faith filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and remained in place until the MPLLC assets were transferred to the parent company level in November 2002 and the Milltown Dam thereafter qualified as an EWG”; and

(b) “In this respect, the 3(a)(3) exemption was ‘temporary’ and had always been intended to be ‘temporary’ – not because there was any specific time limitation under PUHCA, but rather because NorthWestern had always intended to return promptly to its original ‘flat’ structure, and once the necessary steps were taken to do so, the exemption was no longer necessary.”

REQUEST NO. 10

All documents relating to or concerning any communications from any regulatory agency stating that NorthWestern was not entitled to the exemption under PUHCA that it obtained as referenced in Mike Hanson and Eric Jacobsen’s January 28, 2002 Memorandum to NorthWestern’s Board of Directors (NOR142389-NOR142392).

REQUEST NO. 11

All documents relating to or concerning NorthWestern’s determination that it would not proceed with the Acquisition if it was unable to either (i) isolate the Milltown Dam assets and/or (ii) effectuate the Transfer.

REQUEST NO. 12

All documents relating to or concerning any communication from any regulatory agency to NorthWestern that NorthWestern would be in violation of any regulatory requirement by virtue of holding the Transferred Assets in a subsidiary.

REQUEST NO. 13

All documents relating to or concerning any factual or legal issue which Charles A. Patrizia may testify about at the forthcoming trial in the above-referenced action.

REQUEST NO. 14

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to NorthWestern, about the structure of the Acquisition and/or the Transfer.

REQUEST NO. 15

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to NorthWestern, about NorthWestern's "reasonable and legitimate business objectives" relating to the Acquisition and/or the Transfer, as such phrase is used in the Patrizia Declaration.

REQUEST NO. 16

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to NorthWestern, about any regulatory issues impacting the structure or timing of the Acquisition and/or the Transfer.

REQUEST NO. 17

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to

NorthWestern, about the interests or potential reactions of rating agencies and capital markets with respect to the Acquisition and/or the Transfer.

REQUEST NO. 18

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to NorthWestern, about the timing of effectuating the Transfer following the Acquisition.

REQUEST NO. 19

All documents constituting or concerning any communications between or involving you and/or NorthWestern, including any legal or other professional advice provided to NorthWestern, about the potential impact of the accuracy or inaccuracy of NorthWestern's publicly issued financial statements on the Acquisition and/or the Transfer.

Rule 45, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Subdivisions (c), (d), and (e), as amended on December 1, 2006:

(c) PROTECTION OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO SUBPOENAS.

(1) A party or an attorney responsible for the issuance and service of a subpoena shall take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to that subpoena. The court on behalf of which the subpoena was issued shall enforce this duty and impose upon the party or attorney in breach of this duty an appropriate sanction, which may include, but is not limited to, lost earnings and a reasonable attorney's fee.

(2) (A) A person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of designated electronically stored information, books, papers, documents or tangible things, or inspection of premises need not appear in person at the place of production or inspection unless commanded to appear for deposition, hearing or trial.

(B) Subject to paragraph (d)(2) of this rule, a person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling may, within 14 days after service of the subpoena or before the time specified for compliance if such time is less than 14 days after service, serve upon the party or attorney designated in the subpoena written objection to producing any or all of the designated materials or inspection of the premises — or to producing electronically stored information in the form or forms requested. If objection is made, the party serving the subpoena shall not be entitled to inspect, copy, test, or sample the materials or inspect the premises except pursuant to an order of the court by which the subpoena was issued. If objection has been made, the party serving the subpoena may, upon notice to the person commanded to produce, move at any time for an order to compel the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling. Such an order to compel shall protect any person who is not a party or an officer of a party from significant expense resulting from the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling commanded.

(3) (A) On timely motion, the court by which a subpoena was issued shall quash or modify the subpoena if it

(i) fails to allow reasonable time for compliance;
(ii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to travel to a place more than 100 miles from the place where that person resides, is employed or regularly transacts business in person, except that, subject to the provisions of clause (c)(3)(B)(iii) of this rule, such a person may in order to attend trial be commanded to travel from any such place within the state in which the trial is held;

(iii) requires disclosure of privileged or other protected matter and no exception or waiver applies; or

(iv) subjects a person to undue burden.

(B) If a subpoena

(i) requires disclosure of a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information, or

(ii) requires disclosure of an unretained expert's opinion or information not describing specific events or occurrences in dispute and resulting from the expert's study made not at the request of any party, or

(iii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to incur substantial expense to travel more than 100 miles to attend trial, the court may, to protect a person subject to or affected by the subpoena, quash or modify the subpoena or, if the party in whose behalf the subpoena is issued shows a substantial need for the testimony or material that cannot be otherwise met without undue hardship and assures that the person to whom the subpoena is addressed will be reasonably compensated, the court may order appearance or production only upon specified conditions.

(d) DUTIES IN RESPONDING TO SUBPOENA.

(1) (A) A person responding to a subpoena to produce documents shall produce them as they are kept in the usual course of business or shall organize and label them to correspond with the categories in the demand.

(B) If a subpoena does not specify the form or forms for producing electronically stored information, a person responding to a subpoena must produce the information in a form or forms in which the person ordinarily maintains it or in a form or forms that are reasonably usable.

(C) A person responding to a subpoena need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form.

(D) A person responding to a subpoena need not provide discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or to quash, the person from whom discovery is sought must show that the information sought is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause, considering the limitations of Rule 26(b)(2)(C). The court may specify conditions for the discovery.

(2) (A) When information subject to a subpoena is withheld on a claim that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation materials, the claim shall be made expressly and shall be supported by a description of the nature of the documents, communications, or things not produced that is sufficient to enable the demanding party to contest the claim.

(B) If information is produced in response to a subpoena that is subject to a claim of privilege or of protection as trial-preparation material, the person making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has and may not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved. A receiving party may promptly present the information to the court under seal for a determination of the claim. If the receiving party disclosed the information before being notified, it must take reasonable steps to retrieve it. The person who produced the information must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(e) CONTEMPT. Failure of any person without adequate excuse to obey a subpoena served upon that person may be deemed a contempt of the court from which the subpoena issued. An adequate cause for failure to obey exists when a subpoena purports to require a nonparty to attend or produce at a place not within the limits provided by clause (ii) of subparagraph (c)(3)(A).

REQUEST NO. 3

With respect to ¶ 4 of the Patrizia Declaration, all documents relating to or concerning the “reasonable and legitimate business objectives of NorthWestern: (i) to avoid burdensome and duplicative regulation; and (ii) to address the interests of rating agencies and capital markets, which preferred that NorthWestern hold the MPLLC assets at the parent level.”

REQUEST NO. 4

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 6 of the Patrizia Declaration:

- (a) “NorthWestern preferred that the Transaction not result in its becoming a registered utility holding company, and therefore sought to structure the Transaction in a way that would avoid that possibility”; and

- (a) “Because the transfer of assets could not be completed until NorthWestern had identified all of the MPLLC assets (including bills of sale and deeds, where applicable) and obtained various consents and regulatory approvals, there was inevitably some time between the initial acquisition of MPLLC (the first step in the Transaction), and the structural restoration of NorthWestern as a ‘flat’ utility company”; and
- (b) “In that circumstance, unless it otherwise qualified for an exemption from PUHCA, NorthWestern would have been subject to federal regulation and oversight under PUHCA.”

- (b) “Ultimately, by the end of 2001, it became clear in discussions with the SEC staff that because of various factors, including the relative size of NorthWestern’s utility businesses in Montana, South Dakota, and Nebraska following the acquisition of MPLLC, NorthWestern would not meet the quantitative standards historically used by the SEC staff under sections 3(a)(1) and 3(a)(2) of PUHCA”;
- (c) “After further discussion of the issues with the SEC staff, in February 2002 NorthWestern filed an application for an exemption under Section 3(a)(3) of PUHCA to address its status during the period necessary to complete the structural restoration”; and
- (d) “In the application, NorthWestern showed that, given the lines of business it was then conducting and the historic gross revenues of those various businesses, NorthWestern was only ‘incidentally a holding company, being primarily engaged or interested in one or more businesses other than the business of public-utility company and ... not deriving, directly or indirectly, any material part of its income from any one or more subsidiary companies, the principal business of which is that of a public-utility company.’”

REQUEST NO. 9

All documents relating to or concerning the following statements in ¶ 11 of the Patrizia Declaration:

(a) “NorthWestern’s application for a 3(a)(3) exemption was effective upon its good faith filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and remained in place until the MPLLC assets were transferred to the parent company level in November 2002 and the Milltown Dam thereafter qualified as an EWG”; and

(b) “In this respect, the 3(a)(3) exemption was ‘temporary’ and had always been intended to be ‘temporary’ – not because there was any specific time limitation under PUHCA, but rather because NorthWestern had always intended to return promptly to its original ‘flat’ structure, and once the necessary steps were taken to do so, the exemption was no longer necessary.”

REQUEST NO. 10

All documents relating to or concerning any communications from any regulatory agency stating that NorthWestern was not entitled to the exemption under PUHCA that it obtained as referenced in Mike Hanson and Eric Jacobsen’s January 28, 2002 Memorandum to NorthWestern’s Board of Directors (NOR142389-NOR142392).
